

DESCRIPTIVE ABSTRACT

"Process and device for storing and accessing data in a computerized travel reservation system"

5 AMADEUS s.a.s

The present invention relates to a process and device for storing and accessing data in databases of a computerized travel reservation system.

According to the invention:

10 - for each type of information to be stored, there are created rules associating:

- a set of criteria defining the trips to which the information applies,
 - a content representing the value of the
- 15 information to be applied;

- the set of criteria of a rule comprises a pair of markets with a market of origin that is defined by the geographical zone of departure on the trip and a destination market which is defined by the geographical zone of arrival of the trip,

20 - the defined markets are stored in a database,
- the rules created are stored in a database.